presents:

A World of Gratitude

Multicultural Thanksgiving Potluck Event

Every year, Dr. Pir hosts a meaningful, multicultural celebration of gratitude in recognition of the Thanksgiving holiday. IMCES Doctoral Interns have the opportunity to organize and lead the event activities that are engaging for everyone.
Staff members bring diverse food dishes from various cultures and share their personal stories of why this dish means something to them.
The event highlights IMCES team membership, appreciation, and gratitude!

Activities

The Doctoral Interns created custom, IMCES-themed cultural activities for everyone to participate during the event!
Natalie Vargas hosted a "Loteria" game based on IMCES team members, company culture references, & organizational easter eggs! Macy Reyes hosted the Vietnamese dice game "Bầu cua cá cọp" but instead of the usual board, she featured images of each of the Clinical Supervisors where people could choose one and try their luck for a prize!

All of the interns' contributions and participation created a fun, engaging space for everyone to enjoy!

Feedback

"It was, as always, a deeply meaningful event characterized by vibrant energy, laughter, and profound generosity."

"IMCES is a place where people feel seen, valued, and welcome just as they are"

"We have a warm, kind, supportive and loving space to be us."

"Dr. Pir, thank you for fostering such a warm, welcoming, and supportive environment where we can come together not just as colleagues, but as a true family."

More to come in our November newsletter...